

ALDROVANDI
VILLA BORGHESI
ROME

A stylish retreat amidst the bustle of Rome

A stone's throw from the Villa Borghese gardens and historic landmarks including Via Veneto and the Spanish Steps, Aldrovandi Villa Borghese is located in an upscale residential neighbourhood. In the heart of an extraordinary city, the hotel is in every sense an urban resort.

Housed in a 19th century villa, formerly a convent, the hotel offers palatial splendour at every turn. Marble and parquetry abound to a grandiose effect, while an atmosphere rich in history and tradition is felt throughout. A one-time religious institution for titled ladies – previously known as the Istituto Cabrini – this building has played host to European aristocracy, international diplomats and politicians, and its noble origins have been respectfully preserved.

From a stylish range of rooms and suites, each space is a celebration of traditional Italian style, with stunning views of Villa Aldrovandi's exotic private gardens or the Villa Borghese park. Mediterranean hospitality is standard with the hotel's highly personalised service, from the moment guests are warmly welcomed into the grand entrance.

When all the needs of a modern traveller are met, time is released to precious moments. Bask in the glamour of this chic hideaway and revel in a world of grandeur. An enchanting city is here to explore and a rich experience awaits.

Location

Aldrovandi Villa Borghese is superbly located within Rome's Pinciano district, an upscale residential area in the heart of the city, between the green expanse of Villa Borghese and the historical landmark of Valle Giulia. The hotel is within walking distance of extraordinary sites, including the Spanish Steps and Pincio Terrace.
